

James is a third-generation Monto cattle producer who lives on their family's property 'Cootharaba' with his wife Karla and their three kids.

"I have been an AgForce member for over ten years as it is important to have a voice in the industry," said James.

"I keep up to date with everything that AgForce sends me and it was great to find out about the stamp duty exemptions as soon as it was announced in the last budget.

"I had just bought into the family business on a QRAA first start loan. This has started the whole succession planning process and now with the stamp duty exemption we will be able to fast track it.

"Hopefully my twin boys want to follow my foot steps into the industry, as it is my plan to get another generation into the farm after me. This exemption will help them to do that."
